You've been told that a white flag is a symbol of reprieve
And that a man of courage would never sound retreat
But the key to survival in this warfare that we're in
Is to lay down all your weapons

It takes the strong to
It takes the strong to surrender
And give everything to him
It takes the strong to
It takes the strong to surrender
And give everything to him

There may be many changes that you know He wants to make Putting up your defenses will only veer off what it will take
Give in to conviction
Serve him with a life that's right
You've got to lay it on the line
